

Woman protests at

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wald, and their daughter Pamela.

Gonubie scenery delights sculptor Wald

The dazzling scenery at Gonubie has cast its spell on South African sculptor Herman Wald.

Mr. Wald, who is holidaying at Gonubie with his wife and daughter, is so enthralled by the scenery he is on the beach at sunrise sketching.

Later, these scenes may be transformed into models under his talented hands.

Mr. Wald was born in Hungary in 1906. He studied at the Budapest Academy, in Vienna and in Berlin before coming to South Africa in 1937.

His public works in South Africa include the Kria Monument to the martyred Jewish people in Europe at the Jewish Old Age Home in Johannesburg, the Oppenheimer Fountain in Johannesburg, the Diamond Pioneers' Fountain in Kimberley, the Monument to the Heroes of Warsaw in the West Park Cemetery in Johannesburg and sculptural decoration in five Johannesburg cinemas.

He has just finished a work for a South African brewery and before his holiday completed and erected a large piece of sculpture for an insurance firm in Johannesburg.

He is busy on a twice life-size bronze for a building society in Johannesburg.

Mr. Wald met Mrs. Wald, who is originally from Gonubie, in 1937. They were married in 1942 and moved to Johannesburg, where they are now staying in Parktown North.

More than 30 years ago, Mrs. Wald's father owned a hotel at Gonubie and he helped to build up the present Gonubie township.

They have three children, who are all artistically inclined — Michael, aged 23, Pamela, aged 21, and Louis, aged 10.

LIVE LONGER!

Try using honey as

sculptor Wald

sculptor Wald

spee Mr.

Who is to say wh an uneconomical of land?

I was asked this quest
Mrs. K. O. Pitt, who fa
the Nahoon Valley, aft article appeared in last Mercury telling of the c ties experienced by farm the area, when the N
river came down in flood

Families are strande
cause the only exit fro area was via the lo causeway known as Drift to Highgate, whi came inundated by flood during periods of rain.

The chairman o fthe
sional Council, Council
Shaw, was quoted as l
said the problem arose
the fact that farms were d
into "small unecon

Praise Pitt

MR. SHAW'S stat
has also been criticise
Mr. E. A. Bartel, of 4
hampton Road, Stirlir

Mr. Bartel, who is own a portion of Horseshoe V writes:

Last week you wrote,
woman, Mr. K. O. Pitt, lives with her family on
of land in the Nahoon Va

This sounded rather c pectful to Mrs. Pitt and definite insult to the farm, Kenwood, an irrig farm of 150 acres most crops and pastures in beautiful Horseshoe Valle

The Pitts have transfe
this farm into a very su ful dairy proposition, o the best in the Border.

The chairman o fthe
sional Council, Council
Shaw, was quoted as l
said the problem arose
the fact that farms were d
into "small unecon