

Massive and brooding, this granite sculpture of Moses is one of 35 sculptures by Herman Wald currently on exhibition at the Morris Gallery, Hyde Park Corner. Herman Wald, who died in 1970, was probably best known for his Impala Fountain in the Oppenheimer Gardens in Rissik Street, Johannesburg. Here 18-year-old Michelle Gray of Bryanston admires the sculpture of Moses which sold for R2 000 at the exhibition, which ends on January 12.
