

THE exhibition arranged by the Histadruth Ivrit of work by sculptor Herman Wald, "The Bible in Sculpture" is a magnificent testimony to the artistic sincerity of a man who is determined to prove that Johannesburg is not a barren place for artists to work in.

LIFE'S WORK

The opening by the Deputy Mayor, Mr. Alec Gorshel, was in a key of considerably more levity than the subjects of Mr. Wald's exhibition. Mr. Gorshel twitted the sponsors for the discrepancy in their various announcements in the Jewish press, as to whether he or Mr. Doron, Consul General for Israel, would perform the opening

Incidentally, although I noticed several Christian ministers present, I spotted only Rabbi Lew representing our local Jewish ministry.

The new Queen's Hall, by the way, is an additional example of the way in which the shabby, obsolete Coronation Hall has been renovated into a splendid building, ornamental and functional.
