

THE STAR

correspondent offers a suggestion to make the Oppenheimer fountain buck leap more realistically.

MAKE THOSE BUCK LEAP

—As a visitor to your city your commemorative fountain in honour of Sir Ernest Oppenheimer most impressive. informal layout of the as a whole (if you can the dreadful old Post Office distinctly pleasing. good some distance away observed the graceful arch created by the leaping buck. s where I was disappoint-

ted. In spite of fine sculpting, the buck are static. If a nozzle were placed in the pool where the leading buck lands, and a fairly strong jet of water were directed so that it created a trajectory just beneath the hoofs of the animals, right across to the other side, the result and impression of animation would be both effective and satisfying.

COLIN MURRAY.